Phillomin Laptiste, MHA

Chief People Officer, Community Care Cooperative (C3)

Phillomin “Philly” Laptiste is the Chief People Officer (CPO) at Community Care Cooperative (C3). Ms. Laptiste joined C3 in the Summer of 2021 to develop and lead the organization’s human resources, member operations and compliance departments as well as the organization’s diversity, equity and racial justice efforts. In addition, Ms. Laptiste is one of seven Commissioners to the Board of Health for the city of Boston. In this role, she works on a broader scale to impact change and ensure equity in health outcomes for residents throughout the City of Boston. Ms. Laptiste has committed her time to numerous community building and neighborhood improvement events. She is passionate about improving the well-being of her neighborhood and serving the people who live within it.

David J. Wolfe, MD, MPH

Chief Medical Officer, Massachusetts Behavioral Health Partnership (MBHP)

David Wolfe joined MBHP from Mass General Brigham Newton-Wellesley Hospital, where he had served as Chair, Department of Psychiatry since 2018. Since 2007, he has worked as an attending psychiatrist at Brigham and Women’s Hospital (BWH), where he held the roles of associate vice chair for Clinical Services; chief, Division of Ambulatory Services; director, Transcranial Magnetic Stimulation Services; and director of Psychiatric Education and Training. Dr. Wolfe completed his residency in the Harvard-Longwood Psychiatric Residency Training Program and a fellowship in psychosomatic medicine at BWH. He is a graduate of Tufts University School of Medicine (MD and MPH) and a current MBA candidate at the University of Massachusetts Isenberg School of Management. He holds a faculty appointment at Harvard Medical School.

Sharon Hanson

Vice President of Client Partnerships & Chief Executive Officer, Massachusetts Behavioral Health Partnership (MBHP)

Sharon is the Vice President of Client Partnerships and Chief Executive Officer of MBHP. She joined the team in 2021, after having initially worked at MBHP in the late 1990s. Sharon has over 30 years of experience in health plan operations, managed care, and government programs, most recently serving as the Chief People Officer at Community Care Cooperative (C3). She has also held leadership roles at MassHealth's Executive Office of Health and Human Services, Boston Medical Center HealthNet Plan, and First Mental Health Services, and has worked as an independent consultant at Health Management Associates. Sharon's educational background includes P.G. Teachers College, University of the West Indies, and Northeastern University.

Christina Severin, MPH

President & Chief Executive Officer, Community Care Cooperative (C3)

Christina Severin is a leading health care executive with more than 20 years of experience and numerous accomplishments in managed care, delivery systems, health insurance, Accountable Care Organizations, quality, public policy, and public health. She has led Community Care Cooperative (C3) since the organization's launch in 2016, leveraging the proven best practices of ACOs throughout the country, building the organization on the collective strengths of its health centers, and growing the organization to better serve MassHealth members throughout the commonwealth. Christina's prior leadership experience includes serving as President and Chief Executive Officer of Beth Israel Deaconess Care Organization and as President of Network Health, a nonprofit Massachusetts health plan.

Nancy E. Norman, MD, MPH

Medical Director of Integration, Massachusetts Behavioral Health Partnership (MBHP)

Dr. Norman, a native Bostonian, is the medical director of integration for the Massachusetts Behavioral Health Partnership, a Beacon Health Options (Beacon) company. She has served in this role for nine years, focusing mainly on working with city and state public health officials, medical providers, consumer advocates, and business leaders to improve health outcomes by working to improve healthcare systems. She brings a keen appreciation of the interdependency of medical, behavioral, and social dimensions of health to a career spent implementing actionable, practical strategies for health improvement and system redesign. The major focus of her work is to look at ways to better integrate behavioral health with primary care, partly by focusing on payment reform and health system redesign efforts.

Madhuri Jha, MPH, LCSW

Director, Kennedy-Satcher Center for Mental Health Equity

Madhuri Jha, MPH, LCSW is a clinical social work and public health professional with experience providing leadership, training, consultation and direct clinical practice to programs focused on health equity, behavioral health systems strengthening, trauma and resiliency, mental health epidemiology and community capacity building. She currently serves as the Director of the Kennedy-Satcher Center for Mental Health Equity, an entity of the Satcher Health Leadership Institute at the Morehouse School of Medicine, where her work focuses on leading national discourse, programming and research about embedding equity into policies and services that reach people living with behavioral health concerns. Ms. Jha is also a practicing psychotherapist in private practice with specific expertise in trauma and stressor-related disorders, psychosis, acute symptom management, cognitive behavioral therapy, risk assessment and de-escalation.

Kevin M. Simon, MD

Inaugural Chief Behavioral Health Officer for the City of Boston

Dr. Simon is the inaugural Chief Behavioral Health Officer for the City of Boston, appointed by Mayor Wu. Through the Boston Public Health Commission, he will guide a public health strategy to support Boston's growing mental and behavioral health needs. Dr. Simon is a child, adolescent, and adult psychiatrist, an addiction medicine specialist, and a physician-scientist at Boston Children's Hospital. He is an instructor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School and a health policy fellow at Harvard University. Clinically, Dr. Simon primarily treats and cares for patients through the Adolescent Substance Use & Addiction Program at Boston Children's Hospital. In addition, he is proud of providing psychiatric services, including direct patient care and consultation, to several state psychiatric facilities and behavioral health organizations.

Shavonne J. Moore-Lobban, PhD, ABPP

Campus Director of Training, The Chicago School of Professional Psychology

Shavonne J. Moore-Lobban, PhD, ABPP, is a board certified counseling psychologist who focuses her career on providing high quality services to marginalized populations, and training future psychologists to do the same. She is currently the Campus Director of Training at The Chicago School of Professional Psychology, Washington DC Campus, as well as the Director of the APA Accreditation internship entitled the Mid Atlantic Internship Consortium. Her clinical expertise is in trauma (sexual trauma, domestic violence, racial trauma, and community violence) and providing services to marginalized communities. She has developed curriculum on sexual and interpersonal assaults, has been called to participate in state's government efforts to reduce the demand of sexual exploitation, and was asked to provide support services to victims of the Boston Marathon Bombing federal court proceedings. She has co-authored multiple publications including a recent book on Black women and domestic violence, and another on child maltreatment and the Black community.

Debra A. Pinals, MD

Senior Medical and Forensic Advisor and Editor-in-Chief, National Association of State Mental Health Program Directors

Debra A. Pinals, M.D. serves as Senior Medical and Forensic Advisor and Editor-in-Chief for the National Association of State Mental Health Program Directors (NASMHPD), and as the Medical Director of Behavioral Health and Forensic Programs for the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services and is the Director of the Program in Psychiatry, Law, & Ethics and Adjunct Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Michigan Medical School and Clinical Adjunct Professor at the University of Michigan Law School. She is Board Certified in Psychiatry, Forensic Psychiatry, and Addiction Medicine. Recently she has been a lead subject matter expert on issues pertaining to competence to stand trial for the SAMHSA GAINS Center. She conducts work as an expert witness and subject matter expert across the country.

Martin Henson, MS

Executive Director, BMEN Foundation

Martin is a speaker, trainer, activist, and organizer who has spent the last ten years advocating for Black lives, addressing the systemic issues that affect Black and marginalized groups through both conventional and unconventional avenues. His nonprofit (BMEN Foundation) builds support networks for Black men while addressing stigma related to mental health, masculinity, LGBTQ inclusivity, racism, and sexual violence. Martin uses his training as a mental health counselor to add nuance to the way we support the livelihood of Black people. He has done this through engaging thousands of people around prison abolition, fighting white supremacy, and supporting Black communities through seminars, training and curriculum development, community events, rallies, and activism.

Tanoy Burton

Founder and Executive Director, DeeDee's Cry Suicide Prevention and Family Support

Tanoy Burton is the Founder and Executive Director of DeeDee's Cry Suicide Prevention and Family Support. DeeDee's Cry is named after her sister, Denita Shayne Morris (DeeDee), who died by suicide when she was twenty-three years old, in 1986. Tanoy started DeeDee's Cry in 2017, after noticing organizations didn't have their events regarding mental health and suicide prevention in communities of color. Tanoy's organization, DeeDee's Cry, creates space and events to elevate the conversation about mental health awareness and suicide prevention in communities of color. Today, DeeDee's cry provides support to individuals and families impacted by suicide. Additionally, they collaborate with numerous organizations to develop community events and programming focused on mental health, family, and suicide prevention. Tanoy Burton is also the Founder and Executive Director of the Roxbury Unity Parade.
